

Bay narcotics dog locates marijuana

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Buddy, the Bay St. Louis Police Department's narcotics dog, once again proved his worth by locating a stash of marijuana in the bumper of a vehicle.

A Waveland patrolman stopped a black van Tuesday evening at approximately 9:30 on a traffic violation. Subsequent to the stop, the officer discovered a bag of marijuana in the vehicle, Glen Strong, Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force director said. "The patrolman requested that Bay St. Louis Patrolman Jeff Hair bring Buddy to check the vehicle," Strong added.

He said, "The dog began a search of the van and 'hit' on the front bumper. The vehicle was taken to the sheriff's office and a search warrant was obtained from Justice Court Judge Lee Klein."

A search revealed 30 more bags of marijuana, approximately three pounds, housed in the bumper, in addition to two other bags in the van, Strong reported.

Arrested and charged with possession with the intent to distribute marijuana were, Bradford Paul Meyers, 31, 8318 Cherry Valley Lane, Alexandria, Va. and Thomas George Schroeder, Box 2020, Dunnis-

HHS student is West Point bound

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Hancock senior Eric Necaie has less than two months left before he must leave family and friends for a new life as a West Point Cadet.

Necaie considers himself fortunate to be one of the 1,200-1,300 students selected yearly out of approximately 10,000 applicants.

He explained, after viewing a television news report on West Point, he became interested in applying.

"I was lucky to be accepted," Necaie said, "considering I did not begin the application process until the beginning of my senior year, when most students begin applying during their junior year."

Necaie is to attend West

Point on a full athletic-scholarship. He currently maintains a 3.4 average and just completed his fourth year on the Hawk's football team. As a defensive/offensive lineman he has been selected a member of the HHS Sports Hall of Fame.

To be accepted as a West Point Cadet, a young man or woman must be considered a well-rounded person, Necaie explained.

"West Point has a motto," he said. "Every student an athlete, and every athlete a scholar."

Necaie added, a career in medicine may be a possibility.

"If I can keep my grade point average up, they may send me

Field house of dreams

Community rallies to fill need at Bay High

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Last year during spring football training, some 70-80 Bay High players would crowd together in the gym to dress out, and hike a quarter-mile to the practice field.

Today, through the generosity and hard work of a number of supporters, an air-conditioned field house sits beside the practice area.

The 2,400-sq. ft. multi-purpose building was the dream of the Bay High Athletic Club, a booster organization for the school's sports program.

"We absorbed some $15,000 in professional fees (architectural and engineering) and presented our plan for the building to the school board," said Athletic Club fund-raising chairman J. E. Loiacano.

The school board spent approximately $27,000 to erect the building and the Athletic Club went to work.

"What we have now is a facility worth $75-80,000. We took a shell and built it from the walls out," said Loiacano. "I'd say we did about 60% of the work ourselves."

After a day's work, club members would give up leisure time to paint, hammer and clean, resulting in saved dollars on the project.

"It was a group effort, with a lot of community support."

The field house slab was poured in August of 1991, and by mid-season of fall football, was completed.

Among its amenities are 10 tons of air-conditioning, 90 lockers, showers, locked storage space for personal items for each player, a laundry room, equipment room, coach's office and two outside restrooms.

The club's major fund-raiser for the field house was the "Gold, Blue and White Club," a patron program. Others include proceeds from game programs and the Junior High Mullet Bowl Game; a turkey shoot, T-shirt sale and "Saints Mania" raffle.

"We are 98% complete," said

Loiacano. "There are still some minor details... We plan to pour a large apron slab outside the front door to keep the building clean."

He noted the building radiates pride, commenting on the Holocaust survivor recounts deprivation of captivity

BY T. H. "DOC" TOUPS

Felicia Fuksmen is a survivor of the Holocaust. She now spends much of her time sharing her experiences and pain with others, in the hope that the events of her youth will not repeat themselves.

On Thursday morning, the students of St. Stanislaus sat transfixed by her story. It began when she was of an age that most of the high-schoolers could relate to, sixteen.

"When I was 16, I was very happy," she began. "We were very poor, but I had my parents, friends and school — until 1939 when the Germans marched into Poland. I was stripped of my education, belongings, my dignity and pride and my loved ones." Then I was driven into the ghetto."

The ghetto she referred to is the infamous Warsaw Ghetto, into which the Germans forced thousands of Jewish families. They were forced to live on subsistence rations in overcrowded and filthy conditions.

While in the ghetto, she was made to work in German-controlled forced labor factories. Those who worked hard were rewarded with meager amounts of bread, flour and sugar. During this time, German patrols roamed the streets, randomly loading people into wagons. They would then be taken to the train station, never to be seen again. In this way,

Mrs. Fuksmen lost her father.

By working in a factory, she was somewhat safer from the wagons than the unemployed, or those deemed to be unfit by the authorities. Eventually she secured employment in a hospital. The starvation rations continued and the situation was only lessened after the workers developed their own little scam; they would delay reporting the death of a patient by one day. The Germans would then unwittingly give them a single extra piece of bread, intended for the dead person.

One day, the wagon came for the rest of her family. She was

unfriendly persuader

"Our latest figures are that one American contracts the AIDS virus every 13 minutes."

The Federal Center for Disease Control estimates that, for every AIDS case, there are eight infected people in the U.S.

Using that reckoning, North Dakota, with a rate of one infected person in 200,000 people, has the lowest percentage of any state in the United States. This contrasts with one of every 250 Americans infected on the national average.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, the District of Columbia suffers from the unbelievably high infection rate of about one in every 30 people.

A state such as Louisiana ranks ninth-highest in the country, reeling under an infection rate of one in about 170. To say the least, these figures are numbing, frightening.

Despite the hair-raising character of these statistics of the death-penalty disease, very few people get excited about them until a wake-up call from the stricken Magic Johnson.

The traditional, most balanced advice and prenuptial instructions which have been given to engaged couples and to those with an eye on engagement and marriage have always had considerable trouble getting in the front door.

In a word, couples about to tie the knot tend to shun the very instructions and hints which will give them some assurance of embarking on a fulfilling, lifetime relationship. Don't we usually ignore the things which are best for us?

Necaise is a resident of Necaise Crossing. He is the middle child and only son of Francis and Cheryl Necaise.

His parents said, they share in the honor of their son's accomplishments with their community and the Hancock County School system, two of the forces which have contributed in formulating proper goals.

"The community as well as the school has helped us as parents," Cheryl Necaise explained. "The school has afforded Eric the opportunity to take classes in necessary studies such as calculus and physics."

"All his teachers and advisors have worked hard to have the paper work completed in time for his application."

The young man credited community involvement through his church, St. Matthew the Apostle in White Cypress Community, and the directorship of Billy Ray Dedeaux in the Christian Youth Organization (CYO) of Sacred Heart Catholic Church as primary influences in his life.

Necaise has traveled for three years to the Catholic Mission in Saltillo, Mexico with the Catholic Diocese in Biloxi; worked in prison social ministries; assisted in obtaining and distributing fruit baskets for the elderly; participated in the adopt-a-highway foundation; worked on a newspaper recycling committee; is part of the HHS Improv Team; for two years taught vacation Bible school; and participates yearly in Christmas caroling for St. Jude.

Necaise is also an active participant in pro-life rallies and with the Morning Star Pregnancy Center which he described as assisting people with the financial difficulties and decision-making surrounding a pregnancy.

Necaise's father, a native of the Rocky Hill Community, works for Ingalls Shipyard in layout. His mother, a native of Pass Christian, is an assistant school teacher with the Hancock County School District.

Necaise has two sisters, Kimberly, a student at Pearl River Community College, who is presently studying physical therapy, and Rosalyn, a junior high student at HHS.

Necaise said his application was not complete until he obtained a recommendation from one of the state's congressional leaders.

Hoping for even one recommendation, he received three. One each from Congressman Gene Taylor and Senators Trent Lott and Thad Cochran.

Necaise will be arriving alone at West Point Academy on June 29 to begin basic training.

In praising the efforts of the Bay St. Louis narcotics dog, Strong emphasized, "I have seen a lot of narcotics dogs working, but Buddy has to be the best. He is excellent."

Those involved in the apprehension and discovery of the marijuana included Strong, Greg Martin, Waveland Task Force agent, who is in charge of the investigation; Hancock County sheriff's deputies, Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen.

Sales tax increase brings session to an end

With the climactic passage of a compromise $166 million sales tax/education bill, an effort was underway during the past week to reconcile House-Senate differences on numerous other measures and bring the 1992 legislative session to a conclusion.

Barring unforeseen delays, the 125-day session is due to officially end on Sunday, May 10, although it could be extended if necessary by a two-thirds vote in both chambers. The primary emphasis in the closing days was expected to be on bills referred to House-Senate conference committees to iron out differences between the chambers.

Highlights of the past week included approval of the compromise plan to generate new money for education by increasing the state sales tax from 6 percent to 7 percent on most items. The measure, recommended by a conference committee, was approved by both House and Senate by a substantial margin but was facing an anticipated veto by the Governor as the weekend approached. A 2/3rds vote is required to override a veto.

Those supporting the bill made it clear they don't enjoy raising taxes, but believe the money is critically needed to support public schools, universities and community colleges. Those voting against the measure emphasized they're also for improving education but simply didn't agree a tax hike is warranted at this time, or could not support certain provisions in the 79-page bill.

The bill would raise an estimated $166 million with more than $100 million going to education at all levels, including $67.1 million to public schools, K-12, to be used largely for books, buses, building renovations and repairs, and the Equity Funding program. Another $23 million would go to the universities and $15 million to community colleges. In addition, $30 million would be returned to school districts for the purpose of reducing local property taxes.

The bill provides $25 million for a rainy day Stabilization Reserve Fund, a diversion of $1 million to municipalities, and almost $5 million that could be used for other noneducation purposes.

Other key features include a plan to reduce state employment by 10 percent over the next five years; an "Alliance for Families" program to encourage public and parental support for schools; a requirement that school districts immediately begin cutting back administrative costs; and a reduction in the percentage of school taxes that may be imposed at the local level each year without holding an election.

The bill does away with an income tax deduction that taxpayers may claim on state taxes paid the previous year, while the sales tax was removed on wholesale bottlers of soft drinks. The compromise did not contain earlier proposals to impose a sales tax on newspapers, repeal the ad valorem tax on business inventories, or help lower the cost of car tags by boosting the sales tax on motor vehicles by 3 percent. However, the bill calls for a study on the car tags issue with a report to be presented to the 1993 legislative session.

A number of other important bills also were sent to the Governor as the session moved into its final stages.

Both House and Senate approved a compromise budget reform bill aimed at improving management of state funds.

The Senate accepted a House amendment on a bill to raise drivers license fees from $13 to $20 for four-year licenses. The extra money will go to the Highway Patrol for patrol cars, equipment, and weapons.

Voters will have an opportunity to decide this fall on limiting the terms of the Lieutenant Governor under a proposed constitutional amendment winning final legislative approval. It would restrict the Lieutenant Governor to not more than two consecutive terms, although he still could run again after sitting out a term.

Lawmakers also gave final approval to bills to authorize legal action by municipalities if necessary to recover the cost of cleaning privately owned property; allow sheriffs and justice court judges to continue drawing their present salaries in counties which sustained a population loss in the 1990 census; provide for school bus drivers to pay the same fee for a commercial license as a Class D commercial license, starting July 1; allow a person between the ages 17-21 to obtain a commercial license to drive on intrastate highways in Mississippi; and create a savings bank charter in the state.

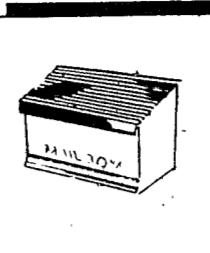

Legislators faced a number of deadlines in the current week including a deadline on Monday, May 4, for adopting conference reports on appropriations and revenue bills. Monday also was the last day for filing conference reports on general bills and constitutional amendments.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Camp for disadvantaged children needs sponsors

Dear Editor,

Last summer more than 60 young children from our community enjoyed a week of summer camp sponsored by the teenagers from Coast Episcopal School.

"All God's Critters Camp" will be expanded this summer to include two, two-week sessions for children from disadvantaged homes. Children from the Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian communities will have a chance to experience traditional camp activities led by a group of enthusiastic and committed teenagers.

These young people understand that as responsible citizens we must work to give something of ourselves to a community that has been generous to us. From the comments last summer, the teenagers may indeed "receive" more from the summer camp than the young children.

We need your help. We must raise money to employ a director, purchase materials, food and provide transportation. $75 will cover expenses for one child's two-week session. A donation to sponsor one or more children from you or a group would answer many prayers and make some child's dream a reality. Please make checks payable to Coast Episcopal Schools (for summer camp) and mail to 912 So. Beach, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

If there are any questions, please call 467-5125. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
Betsy Grant,
Principal

Bible celebrates resurrection in Feast of Unleavened Bread

To the Editor:

This week of April 19 to April 26 is the Biblical Feast of Unleavened Bread commanded by the Lord to be kept "forever." It is the greatest feast of the holy year, carrying with it many wonderful symbols and memorials.

First, it is the deliverance from the terrible bondage which besets all men, bestowed upon those who will seek to honor and to obey God.

It marks the beginning of the spiritual new year; and it is the consummation of the commanded feast of Passover, the day on which Jesus was slain as the lamb of God.

The Feast of Unleavened Bread is the Biblical way to celebrate his resurrection from the dead to spite the pagan rituals which have crept in through the years to change it.

During this feast, all children of God are to remove leavened bread from their houses as a symbol that sin must be removed from our bodies and replaced with the Word of Yahweh, which is the unleavened bread.

When Jesus broke the bread at what is incorrectly called "The Last Supper," he was not instituting something new, but carrying out something which had been commanded since the time of Moses, and which he knew would be done "forever" by his followers. He was observing the Passover and Feast of Unleavened Bread.

When he said, "This is my body which is given for you," he was breaking the unleavened bread of this great feast. Since unleavened bread is the symbol of Yahweh's word made flesh, it is clear that the resurrection of that flesh was to be commemorated by participation in the Feast of Unleavened Bread just as it was commanded. Failure to do so would constitute being cut off from the people of God "forever."

While the world continues to keep its pagan feasts alive by observing them year after year, while it plays and pretends that its play is holy, something very serious should be happening instead. People need to be set free from this bondage the pagans have always called "fun."

It is not possible to remain in Egypt and to be delivered from Egypt at the same time. Those who say it is possible teach the popular, lucrative gospel; and they are themselves still in the bonds of iniquity.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Praises Guard/Reserve; says 'go slow' on defense cuts

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran praised the performance of Mississippi National Guard and Reserve forces during Desert Storm and warned the nation should "go slow" on major cutbacks in defense.

"We have an obligation to keep defense forces in place that are fully capable of securing our interests," he said, "and the National Guard and Reserve play a tremendous role in that."

The senator told a group of Mississippi broadcast reporters in an interview from Capitol Hill that Congress should "look very carefully at any proposals to reduce those forces."

Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations Panel on Defense, said that "National Guard and Reserve forces have done a tremendous job, particularly in the recent Gulf War. They have demonstrated they are ready to serve, are capable, and can shoulder their part of this security mission."

Commenting on the Pentagon's proposals to downsize the nation's military, including National Guard and Reserve units, Cochran predicted Congress and the Administration "will go very slowly in approving any substantial cuts in these areas."

He pointed out that there has been "tremendous pressure on the Administration by Congress the past several years for military cutbacks, and that the last three annual budgets enacted have been below levels requested by the Administration."

Although the threat to the nation's security has been "lessened by the collapse of the Soviet Union," Senator Cochran said America should not "jeopardize its long-range security interest" and should "guard against too many cuts in defense."

Other issues discussed by the senator and Mississippi reporters included his appointment to the National Education Goals Panel, opening the files on the John F. Kennedy assassination investigation, and the Iuka rocket engine facility.

Sharing the bounty

Mississippi Highway Patrol Officer Robert "Bobby" Underwood (left) gives Sheriff Ronald Peterson a check for $22,737.38 last week. The check is the Hancock County Sheriff's Department's share of $98,000 which was seized recently by the Highway Patrol on I-10. The court awarded one-fourth the money to the Sheriff's Department, one-fourth to the Mississippi Narcotics Bureau, and the other half to the Highway Patrol. Peterson said the money will be presented to the board of supervisors at their May 4 meeting, and will go into the department's budget. "We'll probably buy another car and radio, and possibly some other equipment, with it," he stated. "This is a real blessing to us, as tight as budgets are right now." OLA leads in engineering competition

Summer camp planned for dyslexic children

A seven week summer camp for children ages seven-12 with specific language learning disabilities (dyslexia) is planned by "Gaits to Success" therapeutic equestrian center.

Located on Landon Road in Gulfport, the camp will offer specially designed horsemanship skills combined with alternative teaching methods to build strength and overcome weaknesses, said director Barbara Kaiser.

"The goal of the program is success in language and reading to increase self esteem and independence, and to improve study skills at an early age. We hope to foster new friendships among children with learning differences," she said.

An open house will be hosted Sunday, May 3 from 1:30-4:30 p.m. A New Orleans Saints football player will be on hand to sign autographs.

Registration is underway for the camp, which will be June 15-August 7. For additional information, call 832-5629.

liams, Jeanne Bennett, Mallory Mestayer and Kim Nguyen. Science teacher Theresa Braud is sponsor.

TEAMS (Tests of Engineering Aptitude, Mathematics and Science) is a unique and challenging academic competition which encourages team cooperation and group effort, cooperative learning strategy, higher-order thinking, academic rigor, application of knowledge, and leadership and management skills.

The TEAMS Competition introduces students to an "engineering team" work environment. A group of four to eight students works cooperatively in an open-book, open-discussion environment toward a single outcome.

One problem on the National Exam is a technical writing exercise, or "TWEJET." The students must describe an object without using diagrams or sketches of any type. The remaining questions are multidisciplinary, and the team must be able to develop strategies for thinking through a problem.

Division I includes all schools with a senior class of 40 or fewer students. OLA has 29 seniors.

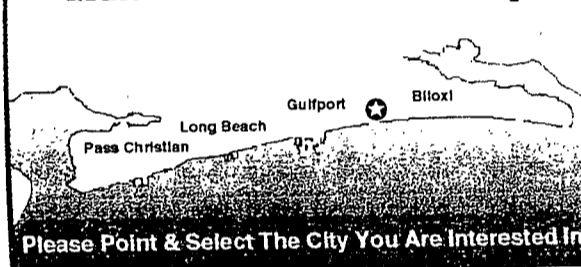

The winning team in each division will be announced by JETS National Headquarters in May.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

It's "fresh and fast" cookery for most of us these Springtime days, when the garden and the beach beckon us away from the kitchen. Springtime's bright-hued strawberries and melons, asparagus and artichokes and all the others, fill the produce counters and bins at our area supermarkets, and crowd our farmers' markets as well.

That Springtime special, sweet Vidalia Onions, from over Georgia way, are to be had in abundance, at good prices as well. Louisiana strawberries take center stage; and Creole tomatoes and home-grown tomatoes are slated to appear in the markets within days.

There are excellent buys in beef cuts these days, and good buys in chickens and pork cuts as well. But, my tastes these days run to the luscious fresh fruits and vegetables available all around us.

It's a wonder that I haven't turned a rosy red, with all the strawberries I've been consuming! I like to heap a bowl with the berries, fill another bowl with confectioner's sugar and dip the berries and munch away!

I also like to dip the berries in sour cream, then in brown sugar—delicious. And, you might want to make a pie, or even two. Here's:

FRESH STRAWBERRY PIE
2 (9-inch) pie shells, baked
2 quarts strawberries, hulled, of course
2 cups sugar

4 Tblsp. cornstarch
2 cups heavy cream, whipped (or whipped topping)

Divide half the berries between the two shells. In a saucepan, mash the remaining berries, bring to a boil, adding the sugar mixed with the cornstarch. Cook slowly for several minutes, 10 or so, or until the mixture is clear, stirring constantly.

Let this cool, then pour over the berries in the shells. Chill, and top with the whipped cream or topping. (2 pies). Also tasty in tart shells.

And, oh, those sweet, tame Vidalia onions! Some onion lovers eat them out of hand, just as one does an apple; but, I prefer them as a salad, or lightly sauteed or baked or marinated. Harvested at this season in and around the town of Vidalia, Ga., these onions have earned national, even international acclaim, and savvy cooks hurry to the stores or produce stands to buy these flat-topped onions with their round bases. Try:

ONION SALAD

2 Vidalia onions, sliced into thin rings
1 or 2 green onions, chopped
3 Tblsp. olive oil
1 Tblsp. vinegar
Pepper, salt to your taste
Mix all together in a bowl, toss thoroughly. I like to spoon a little of this over my red beans and rice.

Let's not forget those tasty crawfish and the crabs and shrimp. Catfish and catfish fillets and nuggets are also a treat.

Nutrition basics stressed in free series of classes

The American Red Cross has now joined in our country's seemingly endless national quest for "the diet" that will help people lose weight and keep it off. Their solution is simply to teach people how to eat sensibly.

The Red Cross teamed up with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to develop a short course about the basics of eating a nutritious diet. The result is a new, six-class series called 'Better Eating for Better Health.'

Airco Gases has announced Bob Wakefield, an Airco Distributor Gases representative, is a winner of its 1991 President's Circle Award.

He is one of three representatives who qualified by achieving a 15 percent or greater growth in business last year. His prize is an all expense paid Hawaii vacation.

Sponsored by the Hancock Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Bay St. Louis Business Association festival gates will open at 11 a.m. with a $2 per person donation. Children 12 and under enter free.

The Children's Art Festival will be chock full of fun and activities for participants during the 13th annual Beach Front Festival.

It is free of charge to children under 12. "Over 1,200 children are expected to participate," says Barbara Brodtman, CAF chairman.

Local artists and volunteers will assist children ages 3-12 in experiencing "hands-on art." Activities will include several types of painting exercises, clay sculpting, weaving, pasta and clothes pin art. T-shirts for young artists will be available at the CAF information booth.

The Little Mermaid

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Diamondhead Performing Arts Society will sponsor its second performance of the season Sunday, May 17 with the Jefferson Performing Arts Society's production of The Little Mermaid.

The Jefferson Ballet will be featured in the 6 p.m. performance at the Diamondhead Country Club. Adult admission is $12.50, while children 12 and under are admitted for $9.50.

Based on the story by Hans Christian Anderson, the ballet will appeal to young and old alike.

On the day of a great festival Ariel (the Little Mermaid) swims to the surface against the wishes of her father, Titan the Sea King. Her father sends a crab to watch over her.

Once again, she swims to the surface where she sees a handsome Prince aboard a ship and instantly falls in love with him. When a storm sinks his ship, Ariel rescues the Prince and takes him to shore. He hears her beautiful voice, but cannot see her clearly.

Ariel longs to be a real girl, and seeks out the Sea Witch for help. She is granted three days as a human in exchange for her voice, but in that time the Prince must kiss her. If he does, she will remain human; if not, she will belong to the witch.

Suspense increases as the events unfold in this story recently produced as an animated Walt Disney movie with an award-winning musical soundtrack.

Myra Mier is artistic director.

Following the performance, hamburgers and grilled chicken dinners will be available in the Country Club Terrace Room for $5 plus tax.

For tickets, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Carol Novak, 6314 Ahela Dr., Diamondhead, Miss. 39520.

Elkins-Strong

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the May 2 marriage of Denise Maria Strong and Andrew Minton Elkins.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robert Strong of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Arthur Elkins of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Janice Elkins of Ocala, Fla.

The Rev. Cuthbert O'Connell officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a formal gown of white satin with portrait collar worn off the shoulders. The long fitted sleeves and bodice were fashioned with re-embroidered lace, scrolled with sequins and pearls. The collar closed at the back with satin covered buttons and the full skirt swept to a cathedral train trimmed with beaded lace. She wore a white satin bow headpiece with white tulle net.

She carried a bouquet of cascading gardenias, lilies and roses enhanced with ivy.

Maid of honor was Debbie Strong. Bridesmaids were Andrea Ambrose, Kathryn Grabfelder, Mary Katherine Davenport, Donna Favre, Lisa Fagan and Leslie Asher.

Roger Rowland was best man. Groomsmen were Arthur "Butch" Elk-ins, Dale Elkins, Gary Sackett, Bo Cannon, Mark LeHigh and Leland Tanner.

Mrs. Andrew Elkins

Ushers were Donnie Strong, Danny Strong and Carey Ourso.

Ashley Strong was the flower girl and Brett Elkins was the ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the American Legion Hall in waveland. The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Pre-nuptial parties

The bridesmaids were hostesses for a lingerie shower at the Ambrose home.

A miscellaneous shower was hosted by Kay Compretta and Pam Parker at the Compretta home.

A rice-bag shower was hosted by Mary Davenport at the Delta Gamma Suite in Hattiesburg.

A miscellaneous barbecue was hosted by Linda Tomasich and Lyla Taylor at the Tomasich home.

A luau was hosted by Cindy and Carey Ourso and Laura and Tim Burns at the Ourso home in Diamondhead.

The bride hosted a bridal luncheon at the Diamondhead Yacht Club.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal Cajun-style dinner prior to the wedding at the Jaycee's Hall.

Ground covers have aesthetic value

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist

Ground covers are low-growing plants used in mass to cover the ground while creating an effect that is pleasing to the eye and functional. They can soften the line of a straight walk when planted in curving beds on either side of the walk.

Ground covers act as a carpet and are used as substitutes for lawn grass or mulch. The choice of plants for use is large, and dictated by only a few factors such as light conditions and level of maintenance desired.

Ground covers around or below shrubs and trees will blend to create a pleasing effect not present when the shrubs and trees are planted in a non-defined area.

English ivy is one of the oldest and most popular ground covers for lightly-shaded and shaded areas under trees where lawn grasses fail. One drawback to using ivy under trees is the tendency for the ivy to climb the trees. At first this may appear attractive, but once the ivy has gained a foothold on the trees, it is difficult to remove.

Ajuga, also called carpet bugleweed, is a popular ground cover because of its purple leaf color, blue flowers in spring, and rapid growth. This ground cover performs well in light shade and a variety of soil types but is not trouble free.

Frequently large patches of ajuga suddenly wilt and die as a result of infection with Southern stem blight. Ajuga may invade lawn areas but can be controlled with selective herbicides.

Other leaf and flower color varieties are available. Regardless of problems, this ground cover is popular and fits well into many landscapes.

Other popular ground covers include Asian star jasmine (more commonly known as Asiatic jasmine), periwinkle (both Vinca major and Vinca minor), Liriope, mondo grass, juniper, Japanese pachysandra and Japanese ardisia. Not all these ground covers grow equally well throughout the state.

Japanese ardisia has dark evergreen, leathery leaves and attractive bright red berries. The plant thrives in shade and is available in both tall (about 12 inches) and short growing varieties. This plant is not reliably winter hardy in much of the state, though plants in protected areas with additional winter protection may survive.

Japanese pachysandra is a low, evergreen ground cover that is better adapted to the cooler areas of North Mississippi. It prefers light shade. Similar to ajuga and English ivy, it bleaches out in the sun.

Asiatic jasmine is a very heat and sun tolerant ground cover that does well in the coastal counties. It makes very rapid growth under the right conditions, and the dark, shiny green spreading growth habit. These plants do not like heavy, wet soils. Where Bermuda grass was once considered a serious weed problem in juniper plantings, selective herbicides now afford relatively easy control.

in Mississippi
Gardens

leaves are most attractive. Asiatic jasmine has a tendency for winter die-back in the northern counties.

Another sun and heat loving ground cover is juniper. Several different types have a low and Liriope, most typically used to border shrub and flower beds, makes an excellent ground cover. Also called monkey grass, this plant thrives in light to full shade. Other varieties offer different leaf color, height and color of the flowers.

When purchasing container grown liriope from a nursery, divide each clump into single plants and space them about 6 inches apart in the mass planting. The plants multiply rapidly by underground rhizomes and complete coverage of the area will take only two or three years.

Mondo grass is an excellent ground cover for shady areas and is one of the most popular choices for areas too shady for grass to grow. The leaves are much smaller and narrower than those of liriope. Divide clumps into single plants at planting time. As the planting matures, mondo grass will fill in the empty spaces and give the appearance of a dark green lawn area.

On December 7th, the Imperial Japanese Government bombs Pearl Harbor and the U.S. is drawn into the global inferno of World War II. The Manhattan Project, which will ultimately produce the atomic bomb, is begun and President Roosevelt signs the lend-lease act.

Meanwhile in Bay St. Louis...

Local Boy Reported Safe. Official Washington Report Confirms Joyous News--Family Rejoices.

Possibly the greatest happiness on Christmas Day, 1941, enjoyed in any home in Bay St. Louis was that of the Emile Perre family who are now in receipt of news from Washington confirming the safety of their son, Leon Louis Perre, who two weeks ago was reported missing after the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor in which so many American soldiers and sailors were lost and injured.

The telegram two weeks ago reported that Leon (Toto) Perre, who was in active duty in the Hawaiian Islands was lost. It was sent from the Bureau of Navigation at Washington and received by his parents on Dec. 15.

The residents of Bay St., Louis joined the Perre family in the good news received about their son's safety.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.

ONE OF THE BEST GIFTS
YOU'LL EVER BUY FOR MOTHER'S DAY

One of the most thoughtful Mother's Day presents you can give your Mom this year isn't roses or jewelry—it's the gift of a mammography screening. And Slidell Memorial Hospital has just made it easier to give her the precious gift of life. For a limited time, we've lowered the price of our mammogram to $49.00. You'll receive a lovely gift certificate for a complete screening mammogram, including Radiologists' fees.

One in every nine women is a victim of breast cancer, but early detection greatly improves a woman's chances for recovery. The American Cancer Society recommends that every woman over age 35 receive a baseline mammogram screening.
Annual screenings are recommended for women over age 50.

There might be prettier things you can give your Mother this Mother's Day, but none so important as the gift of a mammogram at the Regional Women's Center at Slidell Memorial Hospital. Call us now at 646-0560 for information or stop by the Breast Diagnostic Center or Women's Resource Suite to purchase your mammography gift certificate.

FAITH CALLS A BABY THE CONTINUATION OF OUR OWN LIVES

Of all the miracles of God's creation, there is none more wonderful than a baby. It's a traffic stopper wherever it goes, and a great source of pride to its parents. It demands constant attention, and it's so noisy that we wonder how anything that tiny can produce so many decibels of sound. Moreover, that sound seems to be magnified at the House of Worship, where the baby should be baptized or christened, according to the custom of the creed, but otherwise should either sleep through the sermon or be exiled to the nursery. In any case, faith will remind the parents that this cute, noisy little morsel of humanity is the ultimate extension of their own lives, to be molded into one of tomorrow's good citizens in whose hands the future of our nation will one day lie.

A baby is God's opinion that the world should go on.
